INDUSTRY NEWS

India has huge potential in infrastructure and construction and the cement sector in India is set to receive a major boost. The Government of India is allocating funds to several infrastructure projects in the urban as well as rural areas, as per the Union Budget being announced recently in July 2014.

India's cement production has increased at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 9.7 per cent to reach 272 million tonnes (MT) during FY 06-13. Presently, India is the second largest producer of cement in the world with a current capacity of around 370 MT which is expected to grow to 550 MT by FY 20.

In addition, there are a number of notable infrastructural projects already coming up in the country. The Indian cement industry, being the second largest in the world, is globally competitive. With the government of India providing enough scope in infrastructure development, there is lot of hope for growth in the cement sector.

Following the release of the Union Budget in July 2014, cement companies are hoping for some reforms like reduction in excise duties, which will go a long way in the betterment of this sector.

In addition, with the ever-increasing industrial activities, real estate, construction and infrastructure, and with the Special Economic Zones (SEZs) being developed across the country, the demand for cement in India is slated to increase in the upcoming years.

10 Gateways to a Beautiful Life By Robin Sharma

1. The main work of every human being is inner work. Each day, do something significant to deepen yourself. To have more of the life that you truly want, you must first become more of who you truly are.

2. See your life as a fantastic growth school. Everything that you experience, both good and challenging, has come to you to teach you the lesson that you most needed to learn at that particular stage of your evolution as a person.

Understand this truth, and keep asking yourself, "What opportunity does this person or situation represent" in terms of your personal growth. This is a great source of inner peace.

3. Be true to yourself—the best life is the authentic life. Never betray yourself. Take off your social mask and have the personal bravery to present the real you to the world. The world will be richer for it.

4. Remember that we collect what we project. Our outer lives are nothing more than a mirror image of our inner lives. Pour light on your dark side. Become aware of the false assumptions, limiting beliefs, and fears that are keeping you small, and your exterior world will change.

5. We see the world not as it is but as we are. Know that the truth in any given circumstance is filtered through your personal stained glass window—your personal context. Clean up the windows, and you'll clean up your life. Then you'll see the truth.

6. Live in your heart—its wisdom never lies. Follow the quiet promptings of your heart, and you'll be led in the direction of your destiny.

7. Stand in the curiosity of your life. In surrendering control, you'll create a space for possibilities to enter and treasures to flow.

8. Care for yourself. Do something each day to nurture your mind, body, and spirit. These are essential acts of self-respect and self-love.

9. Build human connections. Dedicate yourself to deepening your bonds with the people around you. Focus on helping others achieve their dreams, and be more concerned with selfless service rather than self-gratification. You're here to enrich this world, and you betray yourself once you forget this truth.

10. Leave a legacy. The deepest longing of the human heart is the need to live for a cause greater than oneself.

Time is Money

Imagine there is a bank account that credits your account each morning with Rs.86,400. It carries over no balance from day to day. Every evening the bank deletes whatever part of the balance you failed to use during the day. What would you do? Draw out every cent, of course? Each of us has such a bank, it's name is time. Every morning, it credits you Rs. 86,400 seconds. Every night it writes off at a lost, whatever of this you failed to invest to a good purpose. It carries over no balance. It allows no over draft. Each day it opens a new account for you. Each night it burns the remains of the day. If you fail to use the day's deposits, the loss is yours. There is no drawing against "tomorrow". You must live in the present on today's deposits. Invest it so as to get from it the utmost in health and happiness. The clock is running. Make the most of today.
